I. New York State Department of Environmental Conservation (NYSDEC) Neighborhood Remediation Update

Remedial Design

- Structural inspections were conducted at additional properties located south of Lewis Street along Genesee Street, Geneva Street, and Tillman Street. Remediation of these properties is expected to occur in 2022 and 2023.
- Progress continued on remedial design plans for the group of properties located north of Middle Street along the east side of Exchange Street and the west side of Wadsworth Street. Remediation of these properties is expected to occur in 2022.
- Progress resumed on remedial design plans for Genesee Park based on input received from the City Manager regarding planned changes and improvements to the park after remediation. NYSDEC's engineering contractor will continue to coordinate with the city as plans are further developed. Remediation of the park is expected to occur in fall 2022.

Remedial Construction

- Excavation and backfilling were completed within the block of eleven properties located in the area bounded by Genesee Street, State Street and Clinton Street. Restoration is substantially complete on this block. Additional fencing will continue to be installed this month, and remaining plants and trees will be replaced in 2022.
- Replacement plants and trees were installed on the block of properties west of Genesee Park that includes addresses on Goodelle Terrace, Genesee Street, and Lewis Street. Additional plantings will be installed in spring 2022.
- Remaining replacement plants and trees were planted at properties along Lewis Street east of Genesee Park.
- Other restoration items were addressed throughout the areas remediated in 2021.
- NYSDEC's construction contractor has begun shutting down for the winter. The 2022 construction season likely will begin in March or April 2022, depending on the weather. Work in 2022 is expected to begin at six properties located south of Middle Street between Exchange Street and Wadsworth Street.
